Pictures chase across the ceiling
As I try to sleep at night
There's a voice inside my darkness
Laughing at the life I've lost

She's no girl on pills in limbo
She's a woman on a train
With her senses sharpened by the warning cold
She brings me to memory
She flashes her lights, her mission bites
She flashes her lights

Across my desert mind
Still no change in me
She's no girl on pills in limbo
She's a woman on a train
She's here the woman on a train

And I will speak no words
But the truth for her to hear
Hold her close but never dare
She's no girl on pills in limbo
She's a woman on a train
She's here the woman on a train

She will speak for us both
She will speak for us all
Till I learn to care
She'll override my best intention
Attack my weak deception
A friend for life and after
I'll never catch her off her guard
