These few years have gone so fast,
I just can't believe it how Things do change but they re-arrange, as we get older we all look the same
It's not just fun we all have our doubts,
Paying bills collecting debts
So we'll make a toast to the times we had
And forget it all for one night

We'll talk about growing up; we'll talk about giving up, We'll think of all the things we wish we did but just never did

If this is life then I'd rather try
To smile and make one of my own,
I'd rather risk and lose it all
Than to feel nothing at all
I'm not saying I'll never settle down,
But once I do I'll make,
I'll make it worth the while
So we won't spend another night where

We'll talk about growing up; we'll talk about giving up,
never did
