They call this a game
Yet my body cries
From the stress and the strain
They now call my name
I won't be the same
Where will it end
When did it first begin
Suddenly needing, wanting more and more
Freedom to go
Longing to know

How fast, how high, how far
How bright is the light from my star
How fast, how far

Gets harder each day
For the dream in my soul
There's a price I must pay
Shall I risk it or stay
Just one way to know
So I must go
There's a child in this champion
Sometimes it will question
This quest I've begun
Will I be the one
Dreams do shatter
Against the rock

How fast, how high, how far
How bright is the light from my star
How fast, how far

No I'm not afraid
I know this is the way
Yes, I've got to try
I'm ready now to fly
I'll fly

How fast, how high, how far
Tell me, how bright is the light from my star
How fast, how far

How bright is the light from my star
