In the dark before the day
You're still drunk from yesterday
When there ain't nothing left to say
Maybe then you'll find a way
To the heart of everything

When you've fallen off the path
Frozen in the aftermath
When the good times all go bad
Maybe then you'll make it back
To the heart of everything

When it all comes down
And you're hanging by a string
Then you'll come around
To the heart of everything

I'm not trying to pretend
That I know how your story ends
But I have been right where you are
And I know it's not that far
To the heart of everything

When it all comes down
And you're hanging by a string
Then you'll come around
To the heart of everything, yeah

When it all comes down
And you're hanging by a string
Then you'll come around
To the heart of everything

I have been right where you are
And I know it's not that far
To the heart of everything
To the heart of everything
To the heart of everything
