and lilies on the ground they're much heavier than sound and they stretch out to the sea as far as you from me and the red rose for starlets

and the white rose for wisdom and God only asks for friends and God only asks for sympathy but he's just as bored as anyone as frantic for security

give me naked flesh that's never cold give me shameless lust that never grows old and he said--it's just a white laughter
and he said--it's just a white laughter

and children in their beds and children out of their heads and children giving head and children lying dead

and he said--it's just a white laughter
and he said--it's just a white laughter

just a white laughter...
