It started at an early age, I guess around 13 I'd hear those engines on the street and my how they would scream
They'd pull into the driveway and I would run and hide I'd overhear my brothers friends, they'd talk about their rides

Now mamma always told me, "Don't hang around those boys They'll get you into trouble with the cars that make the noise"
But I had this deep desire that mamma never knew Girls like fast cars too

Girls like fast cars, fast cars too
But they like them sweet small and petite with an engine that'll cruise
They don't want to sound like thunder, they want their engines smooth
Girls like fast cars too

Drivin' down the street one night, just the girls and me We've cruised this town so many times it's the hottest place to be A car pulls up beside us as the redlight turns to green He's revin' up his engine lord it sounds like a mean machine

But I took him by surprise with my good old Chevrolet And when the race was over he didn't have too much to say But by the look that he was wearing, he'd changed his attitude
Girls like fast cars too

But they like them sweet small and petite with an
engine that'll cruise
They don't want to sound like thunder, they want their engines smooth
Girls like fast cars too

Yeah, they do
