Oh how short has been this evening
Since my date with you began
Oh how long will be tomorrow
I wish this night would never end

Short has been the stroll to your house
With you walking hand in hand
Long will be my homeward journey
I wish this night would never end

Every step that we take brings us nearer
To your door where this evening will die
Every tick of the clock, every beat of my heart
Brings us closer to saying good bye
You are warm and yielding, as I hold you
My lips find yours and they blend
Let's linger here upon your doorstep
And wish this night would never end

Every step that we take brings us nearer
To your door where this evening will die
Every tick of the clock, every beat of my heart
Brings us closer to saying good bye
You are warm and yielding, as I hold you
My lips find yours and they blend
Let's linger here upon your doorstep
And wish this night would never end
