goin' down some river in my dreams I'm a thousand miles from moline fire still burnin' in my brain daylight breakin' on the pontchartrain there's a dark wind blowin' over my head kickin' up memories better left dead better left dead, gone for good outta my head, if I could but it's cajun eyes, raven hair how they follow me everywhere the image remains but it's never enough my fingers pass right through that shadow of love oh river, black and wide I think I'll take a midnight ride on you this don't look like no illinois sky and I hear somethin' circlin' high above must be my shadow of love

I met her one night in a backwater town her eyes were workin' that room around I knew she was lookin' to get outta there said she'd follow me anywhere well I got two clocks that rule my day one wakes me up, one sets my pay but every night I see that face I wind up headin' down the natchez trace cause it's cajun eyes, raven hair

time goes by, but never enough I close my eyes and I see that shadow of love (CHORUS)

gonna jump that city of new orleans get drunk with the dutchman, ask him what it all means
