Look up at the mess you've made
Such a mess you've made for us
Did you know
Not the soul you take
And the hearts you break
I've lost

So find a place to die with honour
Or find a place to die alone
Take a look at what's at stake here
Make the choice and burn your throne

We are, we are moving onward
We are pushing forward
Far beyond your reach
And we know, we can always find you
Haunted by the madness that you preach

Now look down at the forest fire
Burning through the land for so long
Don't be scared
Don't be in denial
Been here for a while
I know

So find a place to die with honour
Or find a place to die alone
Take a look at what's at stake here
Make the choice and burn your throne

We are, we are moving onward
We are pushing forward
Far beyond your reach
And we know, we can always find you
Haunted by the madness that you preach

But I was never enough
No, I can never measure up
But I will love again
And I will breathe again
No, I was never enough

And I can never measure up

We are, we are moving onward
We are pushing forward
Far beyond your reach
And we know, we can always find you
Haunted by the madness that you preach

We are, we are moving onward
We are pushing forward
Far beyond your reach
And we know, we can always find you
Haunted by the madness that you preach

It doesn't matter where you are
When you look up at the stars
You can't forget all that you know
And let the spirits guide you home
Even when the sun is gone
You find the strength to carry on
