Free Fall

A drop with arms wide open
I'm not there to catch you when you fall
The scars of time are growing, they are cutting deeper in your skin
A battle that you can't win

These empty words won't bend the hands of time

There's only one path to take to escape the unpreventable
Even if you walked them all

If only you could silence your scream. Feels like a
Free fall, a new dimension
Created within you mind
Free fall, a revolution
No voice and with eyes gone blind
There's no presence without a past
There's a future but it won't last

Slowly she comes crawling, feeding on you indecision
It's a bad transition

If only you could silence your scream. Feels like a
Free fall, a new dimension
Created within you mind
Free fall, a revolution
No voice and with eyes gone blind
There's no presence without a past
There's a future but it won't last

If only you could silence your screams
If only you could fight for your dreams,
