You never could let go of The things you never wanted Like chains around your ankles you Made them feel Until one day they up and walked away And you found you missed the weight I'm getting married now Let's hear what you have to say

Chorus: Tell me that you miss me and that you'll always love me Tell me that you'll hold a place for me Drop a few more words in the river That washes you away from me

Some people are collectors of stones They pluck them from the river To some the idea of having stones Is more attractive than the beauty they hold You're feeling lonely and sad Have you come to face the fate that you hold

Chorus: Tell me that you miss me and that you'll always love me Tell me that you'll hold a place for me Drop a few more words in the river That washes you away
from me
