Album : Seven Minutes in Heaven

I try to make some sense of something that does not exist I'm always trying to make ends meet well somehow I just miss It's not halfway here that we're trying for you know it's over when you see me shut the door that's not the way, that's the way it has to be it's not the way it's just that you're too blind to see and all the times I'd like to turn and walk away I can't you just mean too much to me and all those times you make me feel like giving up you come to me I'm not your problem-solver in a cup and you're not seeing what I'm saying and you're not making sense to me (to me) so I'm holding on I'm holding on to you and me don't throw away what we have worked so hard to be and all those times i said fuck you don't mean a thing well just remember what i say
