Album : Seven Minutes in Heaven

it's your head of lead your beating heart of stone keeps you emotional yet empty isn't that the way the story goes but you can work it out if you put down the stone you're always throwing at the glass house you used to call your home and everything felt so complete (so complete) when your life puzzle missed your favorite piece yeah she's the corner stone she used to hold the mold it's so untold what happened to that girl you used to know well if I wait it out when she gets home letters left you promises but to me that's fool's gold 'cause she plays games of mind control poking at the heart she broke for fun but to me it's getting old and did you ever stop to think (stop to think) you're wasting time that's not the normal thing yeah well if she said hold your breath would you turn blue oh yeah it's true I can't wait 'til you live your life just for you
