The better the day the louder its raining always the same still everything is changing sorry your a doper you got to think it over we'll put you in the shower your head deep in the water why don't you take off your clothes?

Far in the lakes, they live in boats and trees up in the hills they damn the land they might pretend their looking for strawberries little red e's
why don't you take off your clothes?

once it is taken now all the doors are open when you get in well nothings really there with a lucky hesitation you spoil your reputation you lock yourself out and enjoy the situation
why don't you take off your clothes?
why don't you take off your clothes?

sandy beaches flowers and storms downtown bustings, coloured uniforms tax-free stores are not open yet so get to your jet, sit down, put your earphones on
why don't you take off your clothes?
why don't you take off your clothes?
