A consequence, of no self-defense, of no thought control
An infinite sized hole that seemed too high to climb
So I tossed out options, advice you said you did not need
I thought you sought the likes of my kind until you fired back at me

Never mind my hell because as far as I can tell
There is none there to believe as long as it is here
Your options weighed, not just a bad day
You weighed your pros and cons
You've had time think of the repercussions

Now is not the time, you aren't' sober
It seems you've lost the will to fight Desperation seems to exist in a world no one should ever find

Never mind my hell because as far as I can tell
There is none there to believe as long as it is here
Never mind my hell because as far as I can tell
There is none there to believe as long as it is here

I came with peace and he came back at me
I came with hope until he made me see
That he thought this out as tragic as it might have seemed
His options weighed, he feels this is just what he needs

Never mind my hell because as far as I can tell
There is none there to believe as long as it is here
Never mind my hell because as far as I can tell
There is none there to believe as long as it is here

I came with peace and he came back at me
That he thought this out as tragic as it might have seemed
His options weighed, he feels this is just what he needs

Sure it's over, it's another day
Yeah, it's over, I guess you found a way to rise above
Sober, those morbid thoughts have all faded away
