Everyday, I find it's easy to complain
But with a quick look around it'll all focus in okay
By owning up, up to mistakes that we all make You're holding on, you're so dead wrong, it'll eat up your security
Your blanket of security, your power trip you can't break free
Under there I wonder what it is you see
In time the weight will break your fallacy

I don't feel comfort with your finger on the bomb I wonder who's protected here seems you're the only one
I don't see pride, I just see bold stupidity You're unable to compromise, it'll break down your security
Your blanket of security, your power trip you can't
break free
Under there I wonder what it is you see
In time the weight will break your fallacy

Your pride is nothing but a suicide
Your pride is nothing but a suicide
Your pride is leaving you behind
Your pride is nothing but a blatant disregard for wrong
and right

You've got the time to save yourself from You've got the chance to save yourself from You've been holding on for so long but so wrong
Yet still there's hope for redemption
Your pride is nothing but a suicide
Your pride is leaving you behind
Your pride is nothing but a blatant disregard for wrong

So I will try not to make that mistake
I want to be able to look me in the face I promised me, it's my personal faith, to let common sense lead the way

Everyday, I find it's easy to complain
I'm sitting on a fence again but this time it's okay
The battle's on, between your self and you
As everyone around watches your demise, security Your blanket of security, your power trip you can't
break free
Under there I wonder what it is you see
In time the weight will break your fallacy
Your pride is nothing but a suicide
Your pride is leaving you behind
