leave
just walk out the door
don't look back for more
stay where your heart will not break find what your looking for

just hold your breath and wait for this one message to explode
the rattle and the hum of all you know and the whole world just sings along

to every word and song

keep, yeah, keep your anthem strong and find where you belong find where you belong lose your shoe-gazing view and rid the world of wrong with one simple song

hey, can you believe what you hear? we're not taking this no more i'm not taking this no more
