He was fiery in the 50s, would turn around and confront all three A bicycle chain around his wrist, stand up to them through necessity

Who says... Had no qualms in the city, he said, "What they think is not important to me I will always confront them, and stand up through necessity."

Who says... And I hear a mutter whisper or a murmur, will turn around with my right hand free and chains around my knuckles

To danger, I will pay no heed Who says... Necessity is my mother, and sure, she is proud of me With chains to bind my knuckles, a victim I will not be
Who says...
