I took the skyway on my way into the windy city
It was the Last time that I remember you calling
To tell me that you missed me

Here is too far from where you are
'Cause you have run off with my heart

I'm drifting farther away with every single day I've never been this afraid of losing the memory of your face
For the next three weeks I'll spend my time hoping that you're still mine
For the next three weeks I'll say
Anchors away

Everytime I miss you I'm afraid that you've found someone else
That every thought I've spent on you is another moment here that I've lost
You don't have time to talk
Am I a memory that you've forgot What scares me most is how I've fall I've fall I've fallen for you
Hook-line and sinker to every part of my heart

I'm drifting farther away with every single day
I've never been this afraid of losing the memory of
your face
For the next three weeks I'll spend my time hoping that you're still mine
For the next three weeks I'll say
Anchors away

If I lift up this anchor it doesn't mean
That I've given up given up on you But I just can't stay here waiting for Waiting for this tide to come in 'Cause everything's changing
And I feel as if I'm drifting farther away
From you
But we'll just have to wait and see

We'll just have to wait and see
See if you can rescue me...
Are you the only one who can rescue me
