And I cried when you told me he was the one
And I cried myself to sleep everynight for a week
I wondered how somebody else could love you more than I did
And then I thought of the love that we shared

And I wondered
And I wondered
And I wondered

And I wandered the night wrapped in thoughts of the past
When it seemed then for awhile that these dreams they would pass
But they stay and they haunt me
Like dreams of love so often do
And I don't know what to say or think Or could it be you always were the one

And I wondered
And I wondered
And I wondered
