They named you for the sun
Could they have found a more apt description?
I thought that there'd be rain this year
But your smile pushed away the storm

The first look in your eyes was blinding
But then I found it harder to look away
The more that I'm around you
Now I find I don't want the sun to go away

Soleil, Soleil

The day has passed and now the night must come
But I know you'll be there tomorrow
Until then I can dream of you
And all the light that you have brought my way

Soleil, Soleil
