

Bye Bye Bicycle

"Empty Summer"

Visit "Empty Summer" on MotoLyrics.com

Oh if you really love me, how come you never hug me?
And when you say you need me, how come you never see me?

I was your empty summer, you were my burning winter
And like a change of season, I'm sure you had your reasons

I pass the empty schoolyard where we were kids together
And in my former classroom I was a little vail
The smell of cigarettes they, they are forever burning We followed every footstep, I guess we're still just learning

Oh honestly and straight for my heart
Maybe it's best if we stay torn apart
Oh honestly and right from the start
You showed me how to live

Oh if you really want me, how come you never show me?
And if I say it's over, maybe we never started
I was you your love for hire, you were my friendly fire
Oh did you lose a lover or did you just discover?

Oh honestly and straight for my heart
Maybe it's best if we stay torn apart
Oh honestly and right from the start
You showed me how to live

Oh honestly and straight for my heart
Maybe it's best if we stay torn apart
Oh honestly and right from the start
You showed me how to live

Oh honestly and straight for my heart
Maybe it's best if we stay torn apart
Oh honestly and right from the start
You showed me how to live

