

The International Noise Conspiracy

"Will It Ever Be Quiet?"

Visit "Will It Ever Be Quiet?" on MotoLyrics.com

I want to thank the industrialization for the noises it gave

Thanks for the planes and thanks for the trains

And the factories that you've made

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

I want to thank this cultural production for the sounds that it brings

It makes us amplify our manifestos and enables me to sing

I want to thank you, my little nemesis, for everything

For making my head explode and my ears ring

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

Do you remember when it was quiet down here?

Will it ever be quiet down here?

Will it ever be quiet down here?

Will it ever be quiet down here?

Will it ever be quiet anywhere?

I want to thank the industrialization for the noises it
gave

Thanks for the planes and thanks for the trains

And the factories that you've made

I send out all my thanks to the city that never sleeps

It's spreading all over the world, new sounds every week

Visit The International Noise Conspiracy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.