Dear, you left too soon
Went to the next room
If you haunt me
I'll sing for you

The hinges move
Connecting me and you
Is a doorway
You're knocking through

We walk down a dock
And the water's cold
You want me to Escort you

Oh I'd love to go
Swim with you in death
But my heavy heart
Won't let me tread

I must stay
On the shore
I am young
My blood is warm
I can take you this far
Now, my love, we must part

When blood and youth were warmer
We breathed Summer like the sweet air
We found each other like a mirror
We were so optimistic
It was so easy to be
We were young and naïve

Can you pull down the dawn?
It's been so dark since you've been gone
And we've been begging for the morning to come
We were so optimistic
It was so easy to be
We were young and naïve

We'll be fine in the morning
We'll be fine in the morning
It's getting late so we must sleep
We'll see you in the morning
Eileen
