"Lighthouse"

Take what you need while there's time
The city will be earth in a short while
If I'm not mistaken
Its been in flames
You and I will escape to the seaside

There is a storm in the distance
The wind breathing warning of its eminent
There is a lighthouse five hundred yards down
You and I will be safe there

There is a girl who haunts that light house
She saved me
I was swimming
So young, I almost drowned

Down under the water
She sang a story
Of losing a lover
She calls a warning

Love you are foolish you're tired
Your sleeplessness makes you a liar
The city is burning
The ocean is turning
Our only chance is the lighthouse

Her lover was a sailor
She went and she waited there
The door locked from the outside
Lover never arrived

So she sings there
Soft as a Siren
Luring ships off their course, how alarming

We went in
We climbed up and looked out
The door locked from the outside
Three ghosts in the lighthouse
