Hush

A Lifetime

Every single morning before I wake up lonely I figure you here beside me, but I know it's only a fading shadow and elusion.

And every little thing reminds me of you, every shining colour has a shade of you in it. I was blind but now I see it.

If I could only have a day in your shelter off your arms,
just that hour I would pay any price to be where you are.
If I got damn two minutes that your precious time,
cause your seconds on me to tell you
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime for me.

Every other night I still dream about you, and every song I hear has a sound of you in it, I can't believe that it's over.

There were many things that I should have told you, there were many times that I could have done so, but I know baby that it's too late.

If I could only have a day in your shelter off your arms,
just that hour I would pay any price to be where you are.
If I got damn two minutes that your precious time,
cause your seconds on me to tell you
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime for me.

If I could only rearrange the hints of time, I would make it up to you and make a change of mine.

If I could only have a day in your shelter off your arms,
just that hour I would pay any price to be where you are.
If I got damn two minutes that your precious time,
cause your seconds on me to tell you
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime for me.
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime for me
Losing you is gonna take a lifetime

Losing you is gonna take a lifetime for me
