What does it do

When it's used and thrown away

When it doesn't understand

Love's not a game you play

How does it cope

When it doesn't feel its' worth

When there's no one who understands

At least not here on Earth

Where does the lonely heart go

When the laughter turns to sorrow

When it doesn't care to look outside

Or forward to tomorrow

What does it do

When there's nothing left inside

Will it ever feel again

Or should it run and hide

I'll tell you where it goes

If you promise to believe

That every broken heart

Becomes a pair, just wait and see

Where does the lonely heart go

When it breaks and needs to heal
When it hurts so much
You wish you couldn't feel
Where does the lonely heart go
When the laughter turns to sorrow
When it doesn't care to look outside
Or forward to tomorrow
Where does the lonely heart go
When it breaks and needs to heal
When it hurts so much
You wish you couldn't feel
Where does the lonely heart go
When the laughter turns to sorrow
When it doesn't care to look outside
Or forward to tomorrow
