...But the road to hell is paved with good intentions, and whether or not you were trying to ruin my friend -
the simple fact is that you almost did.
and I just watched him succumb to your steps and your higher powers
just call it what it is:
a shame based cult that helps a few and condemns the rest.
You should find better ways to help without obligatory surrendering of self to a metaphor for the christian god.
Find people who need your help,
let them know that they are fundamentally okay (not predestined fuck-ups).
Dogma must be scrapped
and in its place an environment to grow.
So much potential to do so much... believe in yourselves to fight your demons.
Believe in yourselves and not some power.
You're just trading one addiction for another.

Three years of life searching for this...glimpse of serenity. Objections controlled rather than follow I walked by self looking for truths in your words. None found. Now my friends immersed, abandoned by me, should I feed her the lies I was told? Your addictions misplaced on me without thought they may not be mine. Three years of my life wasted for this. Can't find your serenity.
