I heard our song from a passing car
Music faded down the boulevard
Streets of empty silence cried out loud
Telling me that I need you now

Lonely whistle of a passing train
That calls to me in the pouring rain
A face I never see in every crowd
Reminds me that I need you now

I'll never get over you 'cause everything I do
Leads me back to you somehow
Like a fool I believed that you would never leave
I let you walk away I was just too proud
To tell you then that I need you now

I used to wonder where we went wrong
Now I wonder how you stayed so long
In a love where honesty was not allowed
And I never said I need you now

I'll never get over you 'cause everything I do
Leads me back to you somehow
Like a fool I believed that you would never leave
I let you walk away I was just too proud
To tell you then that I need you now
All I know is I need you now
