I could, I could never show you eyes like steel bars to hold you It's 2 a.m. and you're kneeling you're praying no one can see you now you're stuck, stuck in your own skin bleeding, bleeding is wearing you thin if it's war they want, then it's war they'll get so dont faint from holding your breath

You're holding onto hopes and dreams now with angels wings to catch you when you fall down sing harmonies and all those songs that make you happy
sing with me baby won't you sing with me won't you sing away your past now won't you sing it with your new breath don't you hurt her on the inside she takes so much from the outside don't be afraid of whats coming save your breath, and wish it all away now winter, winter's been so cold won't you, take this all alone thoughts of you pour down her face and all she wanted was one embrace

with angels wings to catch you when you fall down

you never danced like you danced with me today won't you just follow my lead maybe you can stand upon my feet don't ever look down down, you'll never look down so sing away the past now, sing the harmonies and songs that make you happy sing with me, won't you sing with me
