I put this knife to your face I stick this rusty blade in I'd cut off everything you held so dear What would they think of you, my dear now that your face has been sawed off?
Everyone would see what I see A demon in tight jeans

'Cause I am sick and nauseous from this And your life is so meaningless right now All the stops are coming up and baby, you don't even seem to care

'Cause I know
but you never ever told me
We know you could never let this go Mirror, mirror, mirror, mirror on the wall say
I know you could never let this go

Well, this could mean the end of everything because it's everything you know (Well this could mean the end of, this could be the end of your heart, your heart) Tonight will mean the end of everything
because it's everything you know (tonight could mean the end of, well this could be the end of your heart, your heart)

'Cause I know
We know you could never let this go
Mirror, mirror, mirror, mirror on the wall say
I know you could never let this go

You gain a pound and you call it a catastrophe I read your mind tell me something I don't know

Call me crazy
but I think I love you anyway
Call me crazy

Beauty is a backstab
it's a backstab
Beauty is a backstab
it's a backstab

'Cause I know
but you never ever told me
We know you could never let this go
Mirror, mirror, mirror, mirror on the wall say
I know you could never let this go (beauty is a backstab, it's a backstab)
