

Johnny Macrae & Lyrics by Travis Randy

"There'll Always Be A Honky Tonk Somewhere By Johnny Macrae &"

Visit "There'll Always Be A Honky Tonk Somewhere By Johnny Macrae &" on MotoLyrics.com

Steve Clark

There may not be a Superbowl in 2083

Cars and trains and video games

Will all be history

The world just keeps on changin'

Things come and then they go

Nothin' lasts forever except one thing I know

(chorus)

There'll always be honky tonk with a jukebox in the corner

And someone crying in their beer

And one old hanger-oners (???)

And a lady looking lonely

From a losing love affair

Yeah, there'll always be a honky tonk somewhere

Yeah, there'll always be a honky tonk somewhere

There may be factories on the moon

And farming out in space

It seems there's nothin' here on earth

That somethin' won't replace

But as long as there's a broken heart

There'll be a place to go

Where good ole boys meet good ole girls

And the wine and music flow

(repeat chorus twice)

transcribed by Kiyomi Yim (yims@netcom.com)

10/29/95

Apologies for any mistakes!

Visit Johnny Macrae & Lyrics by Travis Randy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.