I got so many thoughts jumping out of my head, and I can't sit still

I'm thinking about the universe, I'm looking at life on earth

I can't shut the camera shutter

I stare at the clock, the years slip away and I stay confused

I'm dreaming about la raison d'etre, I'm frightened by the toxic threat

I can't stop the motor running

People saying I should learn some self-control

But I just want to exorcise my soul

And walk like a man, walk like a man

I still feel like a boy and you feel like a girl in my hand

I'm gonna walk like a man, walk like a man

I'm still waiting at the revelation here in never-never land

I got so many things jumpin' out of my brain and I feel so strange

I'm crazy about the car I drive, while people struggle just to stay alive

I can't put the two together

I stare in the bathroom mirror at my face, God, I look so pale

Lines crawl across my face

I'm running in the human race, yeah, me first, who am I kidding

Where is this peace that comes with age, someone show me to my cage

Where I can walk like a man, walk like a man

I still feel like a boy and you feel like a girl in my hands

I'm gonna walk like a man, walk like a man

land

(Where it finally hits me then and only then, I'll understand)

Waiting for the revelation here in never-never land

(Solo)

Where is this peace that comes with age, will somebody take me to the stage

Where I can walk like a man, walk like a man, walk

Walk like a man, walk like a man, walk like a man, walk like a man

Walk like a man, walk like a man

I still feel like a boy and you feel like a girl in my hands

I'm gonna walk like a man, walk like a man

I'm still waiting on the revelation here in never-never
land

(Where it finally hits me then and only then, I'll understand)

Waiting for the revelation here in never-never land

Walk like a man
