When you're tired of the high life
Of sunshine and diamonds
You've grown cold in your paradise
You are still the same
You are still the same
You were born in the light of the first rays of summer
Spawned from the kiss of the last breath of spring
Autumn unfurling its grace through the winter of all
years leaving
When you're lost in the aching
Of a lonely awakening
That the truth has been forsaken
You are still the same
You are still the same
You were born in the light of the first rays of summer
Spawned from the kiss of the last breath of spring
Autumn unfurling its grace through the winter of all
years leaving
