He woke up on,
Another day.
All the misplaced tension,
Had gone away.

A life-long wall,
Is now torn down.
And the future looks brighter,
Every time he turns around.

It's time to go.
It's time to learn.

It was dog eat dog,
For so many years,
Never stopped to smell the roses,
Or to count the tears.

The reflection has startled,
The one in espies,
And the times that are changing,
Can never be denied.

It's time to go.
It's time to learn.

He keeps his eyes to the sky,
His back to the wind.
He keeps a New Found Key,
To let him in.

He keeps a heart that's open,
To one and to all.
He holds his arms out wide,
For those who might fall.

It's time to go,
He's wasted so much time.
It's time to learn,
To truly use his mind.

There are plenty of keys,
Just lying around.
And if we look closely,
They all can be found.

We can unlock doors,
To help our own kind,
And an aging world,
Will respond in time.

It's time to go,
We've wasted so much time.
It's time to learn,
To truly use our minds.

He keeps his eyes to the sky,
His back to the wind.
He keeps a New Found Key,
To let him in.

He keeps a heart that's open,
To one and to all.
He holds his arms out wide,
For those who might fall.

It's time to go,
We've wasted so much time.
It's time to learn,
To truly use our minds
