In an effort to win I lost it all At a standstill How easily it's said

Now eat your words Everything that I wanted to say It seemed to die It all seemed to die on my lips

Another broken heart Another hit and miss And when nothing else is easy How easily it's said

Words so easy to be said Harder I try harder I fall Words so easy to be said Competition it seems so usless Words so easy to be said With an ending all to predictable Words so easy to be said

And once again I've lost it all
