Evidently, it seems obvious
That the planet is too small for us
Heaven help me to understand how
Half of us have everything
And the other half go without
And now my head hurts
And now my heart aches
And have we not learned a single thing?
We all don't have to walk the same line
Victims living in Hopeless times
With power and greed as a spreading disease
Worth more than a life
And if we begin to cross the line
We are all we have
Connected with our minds
And bleeding with our hearts
Those who live in hell
Trying to resist
They never thought
It would ever come to this
Well don't you dare look down on me
This is my home this is my heart
What I need and what I have
Two things that couldn't be further apart
And now my head hurts
And now my heart aches
And have we not learned a single thing?
We all don't have to walk the same line
Victims living in Hopeless times
With Power and Greed as a spreading disease
Worth more than a life
And if we begin to cross the line
We are all we have
Connected with our minds
And bleeding with our hearts
But in time
Luck will turn the wind
And if we begin to cross the line
We are all we have
Connected with our minds
And bleeding with our hearts

Evidently it seems obvious
That the planet is too small for us
Heaven help me to understand how
Half of us have everything
And the other half go without
And if you don't ask and you won't change anything
We all don't have to walk the same line
Victims living in Hopeless times
With Power and Greed as a spreading disease
Worth more than a life
And if we begin to cross the line
We are all we have
Connected with our minds
And bleeding with our hearts
But in time
We'll drink the wine
But in time
We will drink the wine
