I never thought that I was strange
I always had something to do to think about
They say that some things never change
Well I guess they do, 'cos I never thought I was strange

So I maybe off the wall, just a little bit
I may seem to be unfriendly, but that's not it

Well I never thought that I was strange
I always had something to do to think about
They say that some things never change
Well I guess they do, 'cos I never thought I was strange

Strange looks from everybody around
Well I don't care, 'cos I'm not fooling around
I don't know what makes me different and I don't care
Maybe it's not my problem, why do they stare?

So I maybe off the wall, just a little bit
I may seem to be unfriendly, but that's not it

Well I never thought that I was strange
I always had something to do to think about
They say that some things never change
Well I guess they do, 'cos I never thought I was strange

Sometimes I stop, think for a while

I don't know what makes me different and I don't care
Maybe it's not my problem, why do they stare?

So I maybe off the wall, just a little bit
I may seem to be unfriendly, but that's not it

Well I never thought that I was strange
I always had something to do to think about
They say that some things never change
Well I guess they do, 'cos I never thought I was strange
Well I guess they do, 'cos I never thought I was strange
