More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more it's a relief to close the door

I don't want to listen to them any more

'I want to be alone' she said, well I can feel the same

Garbo always kissed the handsome boys and played the game

But there are no pictures on the wall

And all I own is still packed up in boxes on the floor

I want to settle down with someone handsome I adore

But then I only want to leave

It's easy to be cool

You said it was so easy to be cool

Well if it's easy to be cool then why weren't you?

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more I contemplate my death

We laughed for hours and hours - it was meaningless

I can't accept you're not the future I perceived

What was all that laughter supposed to mean?

Now with (??) walls and late night calls, talk 'til dawn

And there's only the heated towel rail to keep me warm

You haunt like everywhere I've ever been before

From New York to the great northern hotel in Peterborough

It's easy to be cool

You said it was so easy to be cool

Well if it's easy to be cool then why weren't you?

Sick smear across the mirror on the bathroom wall

It's never to be repeated

The way you chase through my chest of draws

It's never to be repeated

Your eyes (??) from behind grey net curtains

It's never to be repeated

Oh, let's think twice

It's easy to be cool

You said it was so easy to be cool

Well if it's easy to be cool then why weren't you?

It's easy to be cool

You said it was so easy to be cool

Well if it's easy to be cool then why weren't you?

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more

More and more and more and more
