

June Spirit

"Roundabout"

Visit "Roundabout" on MotoLyrics.com

Album: Testing Superstition (2002)

Dying never seems so easy, because there is nothing left to hold on to your hand slipped away as i watched you (i watched you fall) fall forty-thousand feet into darkness that's more than you, that's more than me Remember orange skies above our heads?
You looked like you were on fire
As i watched your halo drop and your horns begin to shape You're like the sun to me, I walk along unknowingly and your burning me alive, but i need to survive Just let me be an actor in your play, i'll play the part however you want it The curtain will fall and you'll applaud at my ability to be someone else
You're the devil in a beautiful disguise

Visit June Spirit page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.