Hope our paths will never cross

'Cause you will not forget it

Day after day

It's the same old thing

But it's too late

And it made you think

Well I don't care what happens to you

Well I don't care about what happens to you

We let that nature run its course

When we believed your broken (?)

You used up all your alibis

Exhausted all your weapons

Day after day

It's the same old thing

But it's too late

And it made you think

Well I don't care what happens to you

Well I don't care about what happens to you

Well I don't care about what happens to you
