Hold on, there's got to be more to a broken heart how come our families are torn apart?
I tried to trace my steps back, and so I called for you but for five long years you never answered once I was just out for a walk on my own but I think I lost my heart along the way and now I've cried out for the third night in a row so if you're out there, then come fill this void

So here's our chance let's leave this all behind there is no time to hesitate tonight come on in and see what no one else knows break down these walls, doors swing open

It all starts with a willing heart, break down these walls, doors swing open I've found you my ocean, my purpose, my love

Rejoice, this winter will end.
