they say you're saving up all your money to buy that brand new diamond ring well so i'm telling you, don't even bother 'cause whatever you can give me it don't mean a thing so i'll leave you standing there just like you did to me and you'll realize how it feels and then you'll see that you can't take everything and give nothing in return

you won't find anyone who'll take that shit from you are you really blind to all these emotions you see the world doesn't revolve around you you went running around with everyone else and when convenient you came to me am i just one of your many playthings? well in your solitude you will see and you're begging for one last chance and i say no once more cause you gotta learn that

you won't find anyone who'll take that shit from you

pack your bags babe cause its time to go you can't use me anymore here i am and i've learned my lesson you have everything that you took me for and i say no to you for one last kiss as you realize that its the power you'll miss

you won't find anyone who'll take that shit from you
