Leaves fall in the cool October air Days grow short and I can't remember, where I saw you last
Turned against the summer light Walking off on that final August night, I was there on my knees all alone

In a world where nothing ever stays the same
I am left with only things I cannot change
You've gone away
And left me things I cannot change

Smoke will rise and the fire always burns Sands will drift and tides will turn and I can't wrestle with the sea
Rearrange the sky or fight against the wind
Anymore than I can bring you back to me

In a world where nothing ever stays the same
I am left with only things I cannot change
You've gone away
And left me things I cannot change
So far away and left me things I cannot change

Left me things I cannot change
Left me things I cannot change
