"Without You"

Now the fire dies and my tears dry
Without you, Without you
And my room's bare now that you're not there
Without you, Without you

I've been stealing time just pretending you're mine
And living for that midnight song
Guess I shouldn't pretend, every sunset must end
But when the last ray of light has gone

I can't spend another night without you
I can't stand the quiet moments alone
I can't spend another night without you
Without you, Without You

Your thoughts survive, no they'll never die
Without you, Without you
And my love lives on even though you're gone
Without you, Without you

But waiting plays games and the time leaves a stain
It can never be what it used to be
So I'll carry on and believe in your song
That you'll bring it back home to me

I can't spend another night without you
I can't stand the quiet moments alone
I can't spend another night without you
Without you, Without You

I can't spend another night without you
I said I need you now right by my side, yeah
I love you, yes I do
Ooh how I need you

I can't spend another night without you
I can't stand the quiet moments alone
I can't spend another night without you
Without you

I can't spend another night without you

I can't take the darkness all by myself
I can't spend another night without you,
Without you
