You show your age when you drown your rage
But I see past those laughter lines
So baby, let's split tonight
I got a tank full of gas to light

Yeah, we could drive for miles and miles
But you just said

"Not for all the love in the world"
"Not for all the love in the world"
'Cause she didn't realize, now that's a lotta love

Pipe dreams fade and all the underdogs get laid
Left your heart in the hands of a jugglin' clown
And so you crave recognition
But the keys to the city went missing

People aren't puzzles to be figured out
But you just said

"Not for all the love in the world"
"Not for all the love in the world"
'Cause she didn't realize, now that's a lotta love

I guess that everybody went to a better party, oh no

Not for all the love in the world
Not for all the love in the world
But she didn't realize, now that's a lotta love
