Oh, nothing changes around here
Oh, nothing changes around here
Oh no

Oh, but I see you now
On the outskirts of town
But the fog gets so heavy

But if you're looking for comforting words, so long
Just don't tell me that you loved me all along
But if you're looking for famous last words, so long
Just don't tell me that you loved me all along

I saw your sister last night
And we danced, danced, danced
But that was all

Oh, but I see you now
On the outskirts of town
But the fog gets so heavy

But if you're looking for comforting words, so long
Just don't tell me that you loved me all along

And your face so full of gloom
So I booked ourselves a room
And took what every teenage boy in town wanted
And you chose me

And then you disappeared from our lives
Sacred things were on your horizon
I demanded an explanation
You said that I was not your father
And you owed me none

Oh, nothing changes around here
Oh, nothing changes around here
Anymore, anymore, anymore

But if you're looking for comforting words, so long
Just don't tell me that you loved me, all along
But if you're looking for famous last words so long

Just don't tell me that you loved me all along
Don't, just don't tell me that you loved me all along
