If I find another way I won't leave tomorrow you know I never meant to stay but then I fell into your grace the goth upon your face as first I didn't see I was inside you deep and all the walls were painted red with the blood of sorrow

all the struggle in your head from the past into tomorrow
at first I didn't see but then the scar inside you deep was pulled from shadow to the light and I fell inside you further still and inmy dreams you were saved from the ghost of sorrow but if we falter you should know we'll be left to fight alone but it was meant to be we're carrying each other high from demons in the light

and all the walls are painted red with the blood of
sorrow
tomorrow
but then the love inside you deep went from shadow to the light
and I fell inside you further still falling deeper still
