What is called Queenstown is called the Cobh of Cork
[4x],
So I think IÂ'd like some brandy and some port.

[Chorus:]

Well thereÂ's nothing wrong with a drop or two,
For thereÂ's no harm that will come to you.
It makes enemies walk hand in hand,
And it takes the thirst away here from this land.

But the anxiety and stress it calls my name,
And drags me to dim places,
And triggers ancient memories,
Of trauma and old faces,
That I will never see again.
And so I reward myself
For working through a day
That was really fucking hard.

What is called OÂ'MalleyÂ's,
Is my home away from home,
Well it is where IÂ'm known,
By everyone at home,
What is called OÂ'MalleyÂ's
Is my home away from home,
So I think IÂ'd like some whiskey before I roam.

[Chorus]

A chemical imbalance,
Embedded in my brain,
ItÂ's probably from me parents,
But the depression is the same.
My neurotransmitterÂ's dopamine
Is naturally depleted,
So IÂ've overproduced euphoria
With alcohol when needed.

What is called Londonderry, sure itÂ's called Free
Derry [4x]
ItÂ's only called Derry.
So I think IÂ'd like some porter and some sherry.

[Chorus]

A man's in critical condition
Because I had to drive.
Sometimes I say,
"I'll just have three"
Then I'm in the pub all night.
All the tension and anxiety and
The triggers in my soul,
It hits you cause it lingers
When you think you're in control.
How do you picture alcoholics,
Though you may not drink that much?
They're not only ragged wanderers
With bottles in their clutch.
