You used to touch my back to wake me up That's how I've known it's morning
But now it's new and I've just come round What woke me was the sound of you and your friend talking Tell me, was I meant to hear how you held back your tears for all this time?

Overnight, there's something about you has changed
You're suddenly using my name
instead of calling me baby
Don't feel right
It's right on the tip of my tongue
Something about us is wrong
Tell me why'd you change your mind?

Overnight are years gone by and I've just realised how much I take for granted You always said you didn't want the world though it's what you deserve, it was only me you wanted
So can you please explain somehow why you're telling me now you're not in love

Overnight, there's something about you has changed
You're suddenly using my name
instead of calling me baby
Don't feel right
It's right on the tip of my tongue
Something about us is wrong
Tell me why'd you change your mind?

I'm calling out how I love you now It's everything you don't wanna hear So I ask you where you've gone and then you tell me I've been gone for years

Overnight, there's something about you has changed
You're suddenly using my name

Don't feel right
It's right on the tip of my tongue
Something about us is wrong
I guess it teared to change your mind not just overnight
